A Year Like None Other, With a Community Like None Other

In 2020, Brookings County discovered what was important. We saw that people are important, families are important, kids are important, seniors are important. And the United Way network has worked tirelessly to continue to support what's important. In the face of a pandemic, an economic crisis, and the cancellation of our normal lives, our true spirit was revealed. Our generosity remained strong, and our commitment to each other never faltered.

Here, neighbors know neighbors, but we may never know the challenges that each other faces. Many Brookings residents have found themselves in situations they never thought would happen to them. United Way fights for a brighter tomorrow: for the health, education, and financial stability of our neighbors and friends. Together, we have made it through some of our darkest days to find that brighter tomorrow. Together, Brookings County is stronger.

United Way envisions a world where everyone can achieve their human potential through education, financial stability, and healthy lives.

In times of crisis, we responded...

Our world flipped last year and needs started stacking up in our community - from bill, rental, and mortgage assistance to food insecurity, new mother and baby needs, and the impact of quarantine on youth. In a matter of days, our network gathered together to formulate taskforces, create new community partnerships, and adapt entire programming to continue to meet the needs. From looking for additional funding sources, constant communication with each other, and bringing in national resources to assist, United Way and our partners not only kept our finger on the pulse of our changing community but removed barriers to continue to meet the rising needs.
