MENTAL HEALTH FIRST AID TRAINING RECENTLY OFFERED

Brookings Area United Way in partnership with the Northeast Prevention Resource Center recently offered an 8-hour, Mental Health First Aid course that gives people the skills to help someone who is developing a mental health problem or experiencing a mental health crisis such as contemplating suicide. This is an evidence-based program widely used throughout the United States.

17 individuals were trained in how to support an individual until appropriate professional help arrives. The Mental Health First Aiders learned a strategy that includes: Assessing risk, respectfully listening to and supporting the individual in crisis, identifying appropriate professional help and other supports.

The participants were introduced to risk factors and warning signs for mental health or substance use problems, engaged in experiential activities that build understanding of the impact of illness on individuals and families, and learned about evidence-supported treatment and self-help strategies.

Mental Health First Aid is intended for people and organizations that make up the fabric of a community. Professionals who regularly interact with people such as police officers, nurses, human resource directors, primary care workers, school/college leadership, faith communities, community members, and friends and family of individuals with mental illness or addiction members are encouraged to attend.

Brookings Area United Way has another Mental Health First Aid training opportunity scheduled for October 18th – you can learn more or register here: <https://brookingsunitedway.org/mhfa/>. For any question or if you need assistance signing up, please reach out to anne@brookingsunitedway.org or call 605-692-4979.
